Summer Reading is HERE!

2014 Summer Reading Theme: Fizz Boom Read

I know you've been waiting all year long to see what prizes you can win, what we are up to and what program you can look forward to! Well, wait on longer (but sign up fast!). On the back you will see all our programs and now for some highlights!

Since our theme this year is "Fizz, Boom, Read", we have worked in some exciting science programs. During our Geodes class you will watch as your geode is opened for the first time and take it home with you! And don't miss

I know lots of you like to sign up for reading programs at several libraries and guess what, we want you to! Read more, have a better chance to win cool stuff and take part in our fantastic programs!

And starting this year, Dorr's program will also be open to adults so the whole family can read together.

Now onto the highlights in programs (I don't want to give it all away):

our Dying with KoolAid class later in June, bleached t-shirts used to be a terrible concept but not with our program!

In July we will be turning milk into cheese, wool into balls, and cement into attractive stones for your summer fun! No need to wonder what to do this summer, we have you covered with our 'Are we there yet?' kits, makers kits, and programs. So, even if you aren't a reader, come in and be creative... and did we mention that our last week is Always a good thing to learn, how to survive the zombie apocalypse, right? Well, we thought so and so did our volunteers! Monday July 21st through Saturday July 26th we have a hoard of zombie activities for you from volunteers from the police, DNR, other libraries and right here in the village all helping out to get you in shape (mind and body) to survive! Learn to identify different types of zombies, make your own sock zombie, what weapons should you have, how to survive out in the woods, and a basic zombie workout (followed by pizza and ice cream). Door prizes at each program so come and bring a friend!

ZOMBIE SURVIVAL WEEK

Definition of Makerspace: A Hackerspace (also referred to as a hacklab, makerspace, or hackspace) is a community-operated workspace where people with common interests, often in computers, machining, technology, digital arts or electronic arts, or electronic art can meet, socialize and collaborate.

MakerSpace & Teen Make Camp

For the past couple years we have been leaders in library innovations... well, maybe not the flashy ones that take lots of money but the fun ones that we can fund with grants and donations. And we are going to keep going. Our newest endeavor is a joint one with the Dorr library and possibly other groups to provide Makersboxes. Everything you need for a Makerspace project (maybe a sewing machine, maybe a circuit, maybe fly tying kit or jewelry making kit, or even basic robotics or wood carving - the 3-D printer was a bit expensive!) that you can check out or use at the library.

We want to encourage your creativity and that's what the Maker movement is all about! We have teamed up with Make Magazine again to provide access to the Teen Make Camp and will have our kits available at one library or the other starting July 1st (possibly earlier if we can get the cataloging figured out!). Just like books, you can check them out for 3 weeks.

Watch our Facebook to see what is new!

Did you know we are always interested in what you want to learn? Let us know! We want to schedule classes and buy materials that you want to use.
